Why Vinson should be your technology partner:

1. We are committed to operating exclusively in the K-12 market.

A true K-12 technology partner doesn't split their attention across multiple verticals and technology environments. The Vinson team is laser-focused on the specific needs of our partner schools, and we're deeply aware of their unique challenges.

2. We don't sell hardware, just solutions to your technology challenges.

Most managed service vendors try to upsell K-12 schools on IT hardware and other equipment. This conflict of interest prevents your provider from objectively evaluating the best hardware solution(s) for your organization. Vinson will never sell you equipment you don't need – instead, we'll closely consult with you and leverage our access to volume and state vendor pricing to ensure you get the best value on your hardware investments. Say goodbye to vendor markups forever!

3. We've built a team of education technology specialists with a deep understanding of the K-12 learning environment.

Over the years, Vinson has assembled an experienced team of teachers, administrators, and specialists dedicated to achieving our partner schools' biggest technology objectives. From our leadership team to our field technicians, every member of the Vinson team has extensive experience working with K-12 schools in the state of Ohio.

About Vinson

Led by former Superintendent and current Vinson President Michael Nutter, our team of educators and technology leaders deeply understand technology integration in learning environments and apply that expertise to the real-world challenges schools face every day.

Our Columbus Headquarters connects offices and expert team members located all across the state of Ohio. Vinson is built on over 12 years of experience in comprehensive managed service programs and cutting-edge software development. We've built cutting-edge software and comprehensive service programs to solve for learning organizations' biggest operational and technological challenges.

We are intensely focused on providing solutions that make both educators' and administrators' lives easier, especially as it relates to Information Technology, EMIS Reporting, Professional Learning, and Marketing Services. We work exclusively with Ohio schools and educational organizations, and we have the distinct privilege of calling over 120 institutions our partners.

Our team's endless commitment to innovation in education begins with our President Michael Nutter. Michael has been immersed in K-12 education for 25 years, including over a decade spent as Superintendent of two Ohio public school districts. As President of Vinson, Michael strives to help school leaders navigate these challenges with greater ease.
